Through partnerships with local colleges, many TCHS students are earning highly transferrable college credit in their program of study, right as they study in their normal classes. Instructors in these programs have been vetted by each college to ensure they have the educational credentials and teaching experience to deliver college-level content within their high-school programming.

PERFECT FOR:
- Currently-enrolled TCHS students in junior or senior year
- The student who is unsure of where they want to go to school
- The academically motivated student

I’d like to earn this kind of credit, but there’s nothing taught concurrently in my program. What should I do?

Don’t worry; see page 11 to read about more college credit opportunities that might not fit into your school day, but can easily be taken after school or in the evening to get the credits you’re looking for. They are also at a reduced tuition rate, so you are still saving while you’re earning.

MAKING THE MOST OF IT:

Health Career Academy

SIX YEARS OF LEARNING & EARNING

The Health Career Academy program has been the all-star program for concurrent enrollment since the TCHS and DCCC partnership launched six years ago. Fifty-five students have taken advantage of the program, earning at least 3 college credits for their Medical Terminology course, which have been transferred to colleges all across the country. And it was all earned during their regular high school day, at a reduced tuition rate.
Open Dual-Enrollment
YOU’RE IN COLLEGE. SIMPLE AS THAT.

Daytime, after-school or evening classes are closer than ever with college partners with Delaware County Community College, Harrisburg University of Science and Technology and others. At a special reduced rate, these are the most transferrable credits you can earn, and take place in a classroom or online setting with students your age, graduates in college and adult learners from the community. When you participate in Open Dual Enrollment, you’re a real college student, plain and simple.

PERFECT FOR:
- Currently-enrolled TCHS students in their junior or senior year
- The student who is unsure of where they want to go to college
- The academically motivated student
- Any high school student in Chester County

HEADS UP, MOM & DAD!
You read that right: any high school student, whether they are a TCHS student or not, can take select courses at the same reduced tuition rate, with student fees waived. Now your TCHS student and his or her siblings can experience the pride, achievement and savings of affordable college courses during high school.

Get ahead with a Summer Session class!
This specific opportunity can be started earlier than the others. Students who have not yet graduated high school can begin open dual-enrollment classes over the summer, and will be finished well before their high school year starts again in the fall.

THE PIONEERS:
Pennock’s Bridge
The TCHS Pennock’s Bridge campus was the first to house a satellite office of the Delaware County Community College. This made the school a combination of high school and college, and since that time, the Brandywine and Pickering campuses have added a DCCC satellite campus. This model puts college courses right into the building that students attend each day.
